In the development and welfare of the entire United States a modern Trust Company has become one of the most important factors. From it radiate assistance to industrial enterprises and the qualities that achieve success.

Because it lends money upon real estate mortgages it is a powerful influence in the progress of any community, for farmers and property-owners can turn to it when they wish to undertake any improvements. Through its Savings Department the Trust Company becomes a builder of character, and through its Trust Department it becomes a conservator of the future in the safeguarding of estates and the incomes therefrom. In short, the Trust Company combines the most desirable features of the savings bank and adds the advantage of a corporate trustee.

To children, to young men and women, to people of mature years, a Savings Account is an assurance of happiness and plenty, a protection against adversity. Not only does the saving beget thrift, but the possession of a Savings Account increases both the business and social prestige of him to whom it belongs, giving an independence that is subject to no contingency.

It is through its Trust Department, however, that the greatest benefit to the community is afforded by a Trust Company. Briefly, its advantages are these: It never dies, because it is a corporation; it is always accessible on every business day, and is not permitted to mingle trust funds with its other assets, for the reason that the banking laws of the State of Virginia require trust funds to be administered separately. The law, moreover, specifically stipulates that the entire capital of a Trust Company is pledged for the just administration and payment of trust funds.

The Trust Company may be appointed executor or administrator solely or in conjunction with an individual, or in conjunction with an individual and solely upon his death. As guardian for minors, the insane or otherwise incompetent, the company always can act with better success than an individual for the reason that it is no blood relation to the ward and is neither biased nor prejudiced.

In the drawing of a Will, than which there is no more important duty imposed upon a man of family, keen judgment must be used that the testator's meaning shall not be obscure. In this work the VIRGINIA TRUST COMPANY is always willing to assist by placing its eminent legal authorities at the service of the maker. Moreover, when the company is named as executor, it draws and safeguards the Will without charge. Furthermore, the placing of property in the care of a Trust Company does not mean the severing of all connections between the family solicitor in the management of the estate. This company always makes it a point to retain the services of such an attorney, that not alone their clients, but the company may have the benefit of his intimate knowledge of all matters relating to the property. And the charge for such administration by a Trust Company is the same as that stipulated by law for the individual.

The Trust Company, however, in order to be of the greatest benefit to the community must have a capital large enough to meet the requirements of any individual corporation—the capital of the VIRGINIA TRUST COMPANY is $1,000,000.00. Not alone are its safety, service and facilities confined to people of Richmond or immediate vicinity; they can be enjoyed by all throughout the State and in other States, as deposits can be made by mail or arrangements for the administration or management of an estate can be carried on with the same security and dispatch as though the ward or client lived in Richmond.

JEFFRIES IS DOWN TO HARD TRAINING

Spends Busy Day to Keep His Mind Off Wife's Illness.

ENJOYS SHADOW BOXING

Is Great Baseball Enthusiast, and Admires Hans Wagner.

Jeffries Training Camp, Rowdennan, Cal., April 16.—In the midst of a vigorous morning's work, as Jim Jeffries was taking today to keep himself from remembering that his wife was under the surgeon's knife in an Oakland hospital, the big fellow was called to the long distance telephone and told that the operation was over and had been very successful. A big smile of relief and gladness went over the fighter's face, and he went back to his work singing coon songs. Probably the good news from Oakland, which lifted a big cloud of anxiety from Jeffries' mind, inspired him to harder training work today than he has taken since the doctor first told him that an operation on his wife would be necessary. When Jeffries received the telephone message, he had already put in a good morning's work, but he went back to his gymnasium, and for half an hour more pulled away at the heavy weights, in a happy frame of mind.

With a heavy morning's work behind him, and a mind free of care, Jeffries shortly after luncheon threw himself on his bed and slept for nearly two hours, making up some of the sleep which he has lost in the past few nights. Then, refreshed and eager for work again, Jeffries went to training quarters, got into his gymnasium togs, and began a half-day of training, with another spell at the heavy weights. Shadow boxing in the ring followed.

Jeffries danced around, back and forth, side-stepping, dodging and tinging swiftly to the right and left, while his arms shot out at an imaginary opponent. From the ferocity of his face at times it seemed that Jeffries saw in his imagination his negro rival opposite him. Though shadow-boxing may not be counted heavy exercise, Jeffries makes it so by his long spells at it, and the swiftness and energy with which he goes at it.

Spends Strenuous Day.

A prolonged hammering of the punching bag and a series of hand-ball games against Bob Armstrong and Nephew Boyer concluded one of Jeffries' fullest days of work, for, in addition to the customary morning run, the big fellow played two hours of baseball, and put in an hour or so in his gymnasium before noon. And to-morrow is likely to be a full day, though not so strenuous as today has been.

Continued warm weather has brought Jeffries' eagerness for a daily swim to an acute stage, and upon his request work on the dam at the river will begin to-morrow. The big fellow proposes, beside his regular work to-morrow, to join the workers in the construction of the dam.

If Jeffries goes to Santa Cruz, as he now plans, opens the ball game there, takes a surf plunge on a fishing trip, and gets back to do a little gymnasium work for visitors he will be on the high speed all day.

It was thought for a while that a Jeffries training camp baseball team would play in Santa Cruz to-morrow, but plans have not been perfected, and are likely to fall through for this week. Baseball is one of Jeffries' chief enthusiasms. He is pulling hard for Vernon to win in the Coast League, and every day glances at the scores to see where the men stand in the percentage column.

"Say, Vernon is playing great ball," he said, when he read about the string of victories over San Francisco. "I want to see them win, just because they are all alone, and because Hogan is a good sport. Wouldn't it be great if they should grab the pennant?"

Jeffries Praises Hans Wagner.

A long baseball discussion followed, in which Jeffries praised Hans Wagner.

"There is the greatest baseball player that ever lived," said Jeffries. "Some of these other fellows, like Ty Cobb, may be good, but I want to see them in the game ten years like Wagner has been. I like him, because he is so square, and such a good sportsman. I never saw him 'holer' about a decision or make a fuss on the field. He plays like a gentleman all the time, and he is quiet and modest all the time."

An interesting feature of Jeffries' great admiration for Wagner is the fact that many observers have remarked the similarity between the two leaders in two great sports, in both disposition and physique.

A great number of opera seats and ordinary chairs have been moved into the room in the gymnasium, in the center of which the ring is placed. They were shipped up from the Santa Cruz Casino, and will probably accommodate a couple of hundred visitors at the impromptu sparring matches which will occur almost daily hereafter.

It is rumored that an admission charge to the gymnasium is to be made as soon as the fight fans begin to flock in in large numbers. A big auto party, headed by Sam Berger, journeyed to Salinas this afternoon for the boxing matches. Berger is to referee.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The closing gymnasium class in the old building will take place on Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock, when the young men's graded class assemblies for the last time. A large attendance is expected, and an informal social time will follow the class and games.

The last boys' class and intermediate class will be conducted on Monday. The juniors will assemble for their closing rally on Tuesday afternoon. Members are expected to remove all of their belongings from the building by Tuesday night.

Every one is looking forward to the opening of the new building with its finely equipped gymnasium and other facilities for exercise and recreation. On Monday, beginning at 6:15 o'clock, the men's volleyball league games will be played as follows: Harrison vs. Hodge and Minter vs. Ruffy.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

In the second inning Kelfel was hit on the hand and forced to leave the game, Irvine, who was playing center field, coming behind the bat, and Brooks going to center field.

A batting rally was started by Richmond in the ninth inning, when Gilligan and Brooks both hit safely. John Waymack was then substituted for Hale, and the crowd begged him to do something for the glory of "Washington Ward," but all he could do was fan and the disgusted fans yelled: "Not Washington Ward, only Manchester!"

After several poor decisions by Mace, particularly the "bone-headed" one in calling Landgraft out in the fifth, the crowd began to spend most of its remaining time in hissing the umpire, and suggesting unfavorable comparisons with Eddie Fay, but Mace did not appear disturbed, because, as he said later, he was getting the game over in a hurry.

Every time Landgraft comes up to the plate now the crowd gives him the glad hand. "Landy" responded well yesterday with a long double and a screaming triple out of four times up. If he keeps up this sort of work all the pitchers in the Virginia League will begin to feel nervous when he comes to the bat.

Irvine, too, seems to have a good batting eye, and as an Altoona player remarked yesterday: "That fellow always hits the ball hard!"

Lawlor was wide awake in his garden, and was more than once applauded for piling down long flies, one while standing on the left field bleachers.

Gilligan showed that his muscles are getting into shape by putting up a good game at third and in getting one pretty single.

Baker's miff of a pop fly, which let in one of Altoona's runs, was inexcusable, being the result simply of carelessness and over-confidence.

Hale appeared well on the slab, not allowing more than one hit in any inning while he pitched, and allowing no runs at all.

Baker got his eye on the ball yesterday and hit two pretty singles out of four times at bat.

Where Are You Now?

Where are you located? Are you in a home that is comfortable and convenient? That is, wired for electricity? Or are you in one of those old-fashioned and uncomfortable houses that have no modern conveniences—that are not wired for electricity? If you are, get your house wired at once or move into one that is. Houses wired give you so many more comforts than those not.

LEXINGTON GAME MARRED BY RAIN

Washington and Lee Loses to University of South Carolina.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Lexington, Va., April 16.—Washington and Lee lost to South Carolina today in a game which was marred by rain in the second inning. The two bad throws which gave Carolina the game were the result of the wet ball, and but for this Washington and Lee's fielding was clean. Jap Efford pitched splendid ball, and should have won his game. Harper, the Carolina pitcher, also worked well, and was given good support.

The locals drew first blood in the fourth, when Webster hit for two bases, stole third, and scored on Brown's single. Brown got to third and tallied when Smith hit to the infield.

Carolina got one in the sixth chapter, when Belzer doubled and got to third on the bad bounce of Reetenwald's throw to Smith, and came home on Videman's single to right.

In the eighth Waring was passed to first, went to third on Brown's bad throw of Watts' grounder, and both tallied when Foxworth singled.

The locals had a great chance to take the game in the ninth, but three men were retired on strike-outs after Reetenwald was safe on an error. Efford had reached first on a bad throw and Webster had walked, filling the bases.

Belzer's backstop work and Videman's and Hays' fielding featured for Carolina, while Smith's playing at second for the Varsity was good.

Score by innings: R. H. E.

W. and L.....0 0 0 2 0 0 0 0—2 5 3

Summary: Batteries—Harper and Belzer; J. Efford and W. Efford. Struck out—Harper, 9; by Efford, 8. Bases on balls—Off Harper, 1; off Efford, 1. Three-base hit—Reetenwald. Two-base hits—Webster and Belzer. Stolen bases—Webster and Brown. Earned runs—Washington and Lee, 2; Carolina, 1. Left on bases—Washington and Lee, 6; Carolina, 6. Wild pitch—Efford. Umpire—Hook.

BRAGG WINS FROM OLDFIELD.

Feature of Day's Racing on the Motordrome at Los Angeles.

Playa del Rey, Cal., April 16.—The feature of the day's racing on the Los Angeles Motordrome to-day was the running of the first heat of the Oldfield-Bragg match race, which was put on to replace the Oldfield-DePalma race, declared off on account of the disabled condition of the 190-horse-power Fiat racer.

The distance was two miles, standing start. Bragg won by a good margin. The time, 1:28.75, was slow. The second and third heats will be run to-morrow.

The two-hour free-for-all stock chassis race brought eight starters, and at the end of the time four remained on the track. The Marmon, driven by Harroun, won by covering 148 miles. Harroun did not stop once during the two hours. Oldfield went out of the race in the eighteenth mile. Corbin and Dorris had both stopped before this. The hour and a half saw the Marmon with 111 miles, the Fiat second with 105, and the Ford Marmon car third with 103. The Stoddard Dayton, by stopping for gasoline, had fallen into fourth place. The cars held this position almost to the finish. With only four miles to go, the Marmon ran out of gasoline, and lost third place to the Stoddard Dayton.

Oldfield, with the Knox, defeated De Palma in his Fiat in the ten miles stock chassis race, and Nikrent, in a Buick, beat Harroun's Marmon in the five miles. Summary: Five miles—stock chassis, 301-430 cubic inches—Buick (Nikrent), won; Marmon (Harroun), second; Marmon (Wade), third. Time, 3:52.68. Ten miles—stock, 451-600 cubic inches—Knox (Oldfield), won; Stoddard-Dayton (Livingston), second; Fiat (De Palma), third. Time, 7:20.66. Match race—two miles, first heat—Fiat 90 (Bragg), won; Benz (Oldfield), second. Time, 1:28.75.

Two hours, free-for-all—Marmon (Harroun), 148 miles, won; Fiat (De Palma), 140 miles, second; Stoddard-Dayton (Livingston), 137 miles, third.

GUN CLUB HAS ITS FIRST SHOOT

New Traps to Be Installed Next Saturday, and Sport Will Be Faster.

The Richmond Gun Club held an impromptu shoot yesterday afternoon, and ten of the faithful were present. The high wind interfered with the flight of the targets, but the boys had their good eye with them, and under the conditions made excellent scores. Lawrence was high gun in 25, but Parker won high honors by breaking 35 out of 100, which is considered a most excellent score at the beginning of the season.

U. M. C. Anderson was present, but did not shoot in his usual form. He promises to make a better showing the next time he faces the traps.

The new automatic trap ordered for the club has been shipped, and will be installed by next Saturday, and all trap shooters are invited to be present at the first preliminary shoot of the season. Shooting will begin promptly at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Yesterday's Summary.
